Joyce Maienschein Leadership Grant Program

Girl Scout Council of the Southern Appalachians (GSCSA) helps girls grow into leaders who are purpose-driven and work toward positive social change. To encourage girls on their journey, we are offering financial support with a grant program to develop leadership opportunities and skills.

Grant Information

- Girl Scouts of Southern Appalachians Council is offering grants of up to $500 to individual girls or troops within the council to financially support the development of leadership skills and increase Girl Scout visibility.
- Girls should take the leadership role in applying for and implementing the grant.
- Recipients will be notified in a timely fashion as to the funding of their grants.
- Applications should be submitted electronically to info@girlscoutcsa.org
- Questions about the grant process should be directed to info@girlscoutcsa.org

Who is Eligible?

- Cadette, Senior and Ambassador troops, or individual Girl Scouts organizing Take Action programs that develop leadership skills and benefit the Girl Scout or Global Community.
- Cadettes working on Silver Awards.
- Seniors or Ambassadors working on Gold Awards.

Who is Joyce Maienschein?

Joyce Maienschein began her volunteer efforts with Girl Scouts in 1957, and by 1965 she was leading Troop 69. "Ms. M's" leadership was unique and nationally recognized. She encouraged her Girl Scout Troop 69, of Oak Ridge, Tennessee, to apply and use grant funds to enable them to gain leadership skills and lead important projects. Under Ms. M's leadership, Troop 69:

- Organized the first ongoing recycling program in Oak Ridge
- Developed the Hospital Aide program at the Oak Ridge Hospital.
- Created the nation's first Adult Basic Education for the Blind program
- Organized and directed the building of a nature trail for blind and mobility-impaired students
- Organized Braille courses for students in Venezuela
- Established the Children's Museum of Oak Ridge in 1973

With guidance from Ms. M, Troop 69 was awarded an unprecedented six Reader's Digest Grants for Community Service. In addition, Troop 69 was the only American troop to ever receive the International Walter Donald Ross Award, given to "the most outstanding troop in the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts."

In 1978, Joyce Maienschein was awarded the Juliette Low World Friendship Medal by GSUSA in recognition of her outstanding efforts to extend opportunities for international understanding through Girl Scouting.

In 1994, she founded the Girl Scout Museum and Program Center at Daisy's Place, located at the Knoxville Service Center. Joyce directed it until moving to Arizona in 2009. The museum remains a vital part of GSCSA.
